Rules and Regulations for Khuru

Annexure II, as amended at the meeting of Khuru team captains on 30 January 2015.

Materials and construction

1. Hardwood is traditional, but lead and aluminium may be used provided the khuru keeps the traditional shape and size (Zonam).
2. Any material may be used for the fletch (Dro).

Dimensions

1. The target (Bha) is 12 cm wide, 8 cm thick and 55 cm high, of which 15 cm is below ground. The bull's eye is 2 cm in diameter, 17 cm from the crown.
2. A 5-inch stick is used to measure Dayas.
3. The range is 35 m for men and 27 m for women. The Bha Tsham is marked 5 m from each target towards the other.
4. Games are to 25 points; the first team to win 2 games wins the match. A team with more points that has not reached 25 has not won the game.
5. Each team has 8 players including 1 substitute; no other substitutions are allowed.

Discipline

1. Players wear the national dress and follow Driglam Namzhag.
2. Teams may seek blessings and perform Serkyem in the team tent, but astrologers are strictly prohibited.
3. Apart from the regular dagger, no item that can be used as a weapon is allowed on the range.
4. The umpire's (Drangpon's) decision is accepted without contest.

Start and end of play

1. Players arrive before 07:30. Lunch is from 12:00 to 13:00 and play ends at 17:00.
2. The Drangpon decides the choice of target by coin toss.

The game

1. Everyone except the thrower stands behind the flag.
2. Verbal taunting is permitted while throwing, but the thrower may not be physically distracted or have anything thrown at him.
3. A player who crosses the Bha Tsham before release has the throw nullified, even if it hits. The Drangpon's decision is final.
4. No player may handle the target while directing team-mates or celebrating; only the celebrating team may be within the flags.

Dance and songs

1. Only the team with the karey may perform the celebration dance.
2. Dances may not exceed 5 minutes or go beyond the boundary marked by the Drangpon.

Measuring (Kugs)

1. Only the two nominated players and the Drangpon may be in the area while measuring.
2. Measure from the solid body of the target, not broken wood or torn cloth; measure from the body of the khuru, not the fletch or point.
3. A khuru completely underground and not visible is not a Daya.
4. If the Bha is disturbed while directing a khuru, that team’s Daya is nullified; an opponent’s karey that falls off in the process still counts.

Counting kareys

1. A Sa-karey scores only if the khuru stays on the target when it is lifted from the ground.
2. A karey in the Gorthig scores 3 points; touching the Gorthig outline scores 2.
3. If a khuru hits another already on the target, the earlier one scores. A broken khuru whose point stays embedded still scores in full.
4. Any part of the khuru — tip (Chag), wood or fletch — embedded in the target counts as a karey.
5. If scores are level or zero at the end, each player throws one more khuru until a team leads.

Note

1. These rules were amended at the meeting of Khuru team captains on 30 January 2015 to follow the age-old practice of two teams playing against each other, not three.
